L'AGENDA

An abstract geometric design consisting of several white lines of varying lengths and orientations that intersect to form a series of overlapping triangles and polygons. The lines are set against a solid black background, creating a high-contrast, minimalist aesthetic. The design is centered and occupies the middle portion of the page, partially overlapping the title and the university name.

DR. MARK C. EBERSOLE
Chaplain of the University

dedication

THE CLASS of 1957 and Dr. Mark Ebersole began their life at Bucknell in September, 1953. At that time Dr. Ebersole assumed his duties as Assistant Professor of Religion; in 1955 he was made Associate Professor and appointed Chaplain of the University. During the four years that Dr. Ebersole has been at Bucknell, he has made immeasurable contributions to the University and its students. Because of his extensive knowledge of philosophy and religion and his enthusiasm for his subject matter, he is appreciated as a stimulating teacher. Because of his interest in students and their problems, he is admired as an understanding spiritual counselor and a warm personal friend. In appreciation of the service he has given and in anticipation of the guidance and inspiration he will continue to offer, the Class of 1957 dedicates this L'AGENDA to Dr. Mark C. Ebersole.

president's message

GREETINGS TO THE CLASS OF 1957

As the date nears for your graduation from Bucknell University, I should like to extend to you my sincere congratulations and my warmest wishes for the future.

Your four years on this campus have, I trust, given you an appreciation of the responsibilities that will be yours as mature citizens. For society will expect much from you in the way of leadership in a world still desperately striving for freedom. May you find in your new role deep satisfaction in utilizing your talents and your energy to contribute to a happier life for your fellowmen.

I hope that the education you have received here has given you a new understanding of yourself and of the moral and spiritual values so highly prized by men and women who are truly educated.

I hope, too, that you are firmly resolved to make your education a continuing process. Oliver Wendell Holmes once remarked, "Every now and then a man's mind is stretched by a new idea and never shrinks back to its former dimensions." May life provide for you a never-ending succession of new ideas so that you may continue to grow in wisdom and understanding.

As you prepare to join the ranks of Bucknell's 17,000 alumni, your University extends its best wishes for a happy and successful life.

vice president

DR. WILLIAM H. COLEMAN, Vice President and Secretary of Bucknell Study, works mainly on the program of Bucknell Study, a two-year project designed to re-evaluate the curricula, to study the character of the student body, and to appraise the faculty as teachers and scholars. A core committee of the faculty has drawn up a set of objectives which will serve as a guide for the study.

Dr. Coleman came to Bucknell in 1924 as an English professor, was appointed Dean of the University in 1945, and was made Vice President in 1953. This summer he was appointed Secretary of the Bucknell Study. Dr. Coleman received his M.A. from Yale, his A.B. and Litt.D. from Arcadia, and has studied at Wisconsin, Harvard, and Cambridge.

vice president

A graduate of Bucknell in 1916, DR. DAYTON L. RANCK has been a member of its administrative staff since 1921 when he was named Comptroller. Subsequently he was appointed Treasurer and selected Vice President, finally becoming Director of Development in 1955.

As Vice President and Director of Development, Dr. Ranck coordinates numerous committees, working to accommodate the expansion of the University. These committees ascertain the needs of the University, accumulate and assemble facts and figures concerning the necessary funds for these proposed projects, and examine possible avenues of assistance.

Under Dr. Ranck's direction a pamphlet, Two Decades of Decision, was published showing the progress in development and endowments. On campus the results of Dr. Ranck's efforts are exemplified in the construction of the Freas-Rooke Swimming Pool, Swartz Hall, and the remodeling of many housing facilities.

dean of the university

DR. KARL D. HARTZELL, as Dean of Bucknell University, is immediately responsible to the President of the University for the planning and operation of the academic program, in accordance with the policies established by the Trustees. He is concerned with the selection and appointment of the teaching staff, the maintenance of academic standards, and the supervision of the curricula. He is also responsible for co-ordinating the admissions program with the basic purposes of the institution.

At Bucknell, the entire physical education program, including inter-collegiate athletics, is under the direct supervision of Dean Hartzell. The directors of the library, the extension division, and the summer school are also responsible to him. As a member of many of the standing committees of the University, it is his function to see that all aspects of the educational program operate in a well integrated fashion and in harmony with the aims and purposes of the University.

assistant to the president

JOHN F. ZELLER, III, a 1941 graduate of Bucknell, has been serving in the administrative position of Assistant to the President since July, 1955. From 1952 until his present appointment, he was an assistant professor of political science at Bucknell. An attorney, he had been practicing in the Lewisburg area since 1949.

In his capacity as Assistant to the President, Mr. Zeller serves as the chief business officer of the University. In addition, he acts as general assistant to the President by heading special committees and by supervising special projects.

In the organization of the University there are many divisions which come under his direction. He must supervise the services of the Director of Food Services, Manager of the Bookstore, Manager of Apartment and Housing, Purchasing Agent, Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds, and Treasurer and Comptroller.

english literature

The English Literature Department at Bucknell is designed to stimulate interest in the literary field and to provide students with a unified background in those avenues of knowledge with which it deals. The Western World Literature course, required of most sophomores, and courses on Chaucer, Shakespeare, and the drama are examples of courses offered to accomplish this end.

A senior who wishes to graduate with honors may attend an English Honor Seminar with this end in mind. Also, in April of each year a written examination is given to all senior English majors, and those who pass with distinction are recommended to graduate with honors. Sigma Tau Delta, the English honorary society, is established on this campus, and its weekly meetings are open to all who have read the suggested material.

The professor and the student discuss red theme corrections.

speech and drama

The Speech and Drama Department, a division of the English Department, encourages students to improve and develop their speech by studying the proper pronunciation of words and by learning the most effective means of delivering speeches. Once the basic elements of enunciation and pronunciation have been mastered, students go on to participate in debates and to study and present the great plays of literature.

Tau Kappa Alpha is the national forensic honorary. The members, who have had two years or its equivalent of inter-collegiate debating, coach new debaters and participate in intramural debates.

The members of Theta Alpha Phi, the national dramatic honorary, are students who have been active in Cap and Dagger work. They recommend plays for future production and seek to improve their own speech and dramatic abilities by reading and discussing plays.

Activities in radio and television include the broadcasting of away football games, and the sponsoring of the weekly WVBV Dance Party.

french

The Bucknell University French Department endeavors to encourage and to aid students in mastering the French language. The department offers two majors: one is designed to further knowledge about the language and its literature, and the other is planned to provide for a career in foreign service, journalism, or business relations. All women students majoring in French are required to live one year in La Maison Francaise, where the head resident is a native of France. To aid in oral proficiency conversation hours are held three days a week, and the audio-oral room in the library is available for use by the students. Those who show outstanding ability in French and wish to obtain a deeper knowledge of the language and its culture are invited to join its honorary, Pi Delta Phi.

The Spanish Department of Bucknell stresses not only a thorough knowledge of the language but also of the customs and history of the Spanish-speaking countries.

For those who wish to have additional practice in conversation, special hours are held for this purpose three times a week at Spanish House, where all women students majoring in that language are required to live for a year. Here, Senorita Maribel Garcia of Spain lives and acts as Head Resident.

A 1.8 cumulative average, A or B+ average in two advanced Spanish courses, and an intense interest in Spanish are necessary to be tapped for Sigma Delta Pi, Spanish honorary.

The aim of the German Department is to teach the German language and to acquaint the student with the customs and culture of that people.

Deutches Haus, under the direction of Miss Tordis Sopp-Schrade, maintains a German atmosphere by enabling women students to use constantly the knowledge they have gained in the classroom. Conversation hours in German are held twice a week where students may improve their speaking of the language by actual participation.

Delta Phi Alpha is the national German honorary fraternity. Throughout the year members of the honorary meet to discuss the works of major German writers.

FACULTY: Mr. Harold W. Miller.

latin and greek

The Department of Greek and Latin gives the student a foundation for the study of modern languages including French, German, and Spanish and is designed to provide a comprehensive, classical background in many phases of ancient thought and learning.

The study of the languages themselves is pursued by reading in the original such Greek and Latin authors as: Homer, Euripides, Plato, Vergil, Horace, Cicero, and others. In the Classical Humanities the currents of Greek and Roman thought are studied in Ancient History, Classical Mythology, Etymology, and Classical Civilization.

To help promote interest in Latin, the department awards a prize to the member of the freshman class who attains the highest standing in that language each year.

university course

"The University Course Program of Integration" is a three-semester study aimed at the acquisition of a knowledge of the nature of knowledge. Through this "special" or general knowledge it is intended that a means for integrating specific areas of learning will be provided.

The division of this program into three consecutive courses provides for the specific studies of the sciences, both formal and empirical, in the first semester; of the humanities, particularly art and music, with an emphasis on aesthetic values, in the second semester; and of integration, both philosophical and practical, in the final semester. Because of the wide range of this general program, University Course can be credited to any field although it is a part of the philosophy curriculum. It is not necessary to take all three semesters of the plan, but only by doing so is it possible to achieve fully the ultimate purpose.

Bucknell University was one of the first to inaugurate a program of integration such as University Course. Now in its fourth year, the fact that this series has been successful and is receiving recognition can be seen in the quality of its four directors and its ability to obtain outstanding men as special lecturers.

Art appreciation, actual practice in painting and drawing, pictorial designing, and a knowledge of art as a significant factor in contemporary life are the primary aims of the Art Department. Since such widely varied phases of art are dealt with, courses in this department are open to all interested persons regardless of natural ability or talent.

One of the department's highlights is an introductory course in play production. Design, construction, painting, and the principles of stage lighting are discussed, as well as the design and construction of costumes. Play production projects such as poster making and scenery design are also carried out by this department.

The faculty for the Art Department includes Mr. B. S. Gummo, Mr. G. L. Hersey, and Mr. Bruce Mitchell. Mr. Mitchell is the artist-in-residence for one semester during the year, besides being in charge of the art exhibitions brought to campus. Mr. Mitchell's studio is open to any interested students or townspeople.

music

The primary aim of the Department of Music at Bucknell is to help its students acquire the elements of good musicianship. Music students generally study to prepare for teaching or performing, and they find their time occupied with such studies as: Music Theory, Ear-training, Music History, Instrumental and Vocal Study, and "thousands" of practice hours.

Both the more specialized music students and the general student body are invited to bi-monthly recitals where the music students evidence their talents. Throughout the year both faculty and senior recitals are held for those wishing to attend.

The general student may develop his interest in music by participating in any of the many musical organizations sponsored by the Music Department: Men's and Women's Glee Club, Chapel Choir, Band, Orchestra, Madrigal Singers, and Mixed Chorus.

Girls who have met the requirements of theory study, good grades, and musicianship are eligible to join Mu Phi Epsilon, a national professional music honorary.

philosophy

Bucknell offers a philosophy department to those students interested in discussing the fundamental questions raised by man since the beginning of his existence. Philosophy seeks the answers to the nature of Truth, Beauty, the Good and the Holy by delving into the theories of some of the world's greatest thinkers. Especially emphasized are the ideals by which each culture exists and the minds which formulated them. This summer the department is offering a special study course in Europe to be advised by Dr. David Martin.

For students with a special interest in this field the Philosophy Club offers an opportunity for further study. Included in its activities are informal discussions with the various department heads. Its purpose is to develop the many aspects and contributions of philosophy in the direction of student needs and interests.

psychology

It is the purpose of the Psychology Department to examine the individual person and his actions as extensively as possible. The human being is studied as a child, in social relationships, and in normal and abnormal circumstances. Methods of testing and psychological examination are also studied in addition to past and contemporary theories of behavior. Students participate in immediate experimental psychology in laboratories at Bucknell and with children at the Selinsgrove State Hospital.

Psi Chi, the psychology honorary society, is composed of students who have attained a high scholastic average and who are majoring in psychology. Their program includes trips, speakers, and other projects.

The Psychology Club is open to all interested students. This group has guest speakers and also takes trips to such places as mental hospitals.

To obtain this end, the program is divided into the History of Religions, Biblical Literature, Organization and Practice of Religious Activities, and the Psychology and Philosophy of Religion. A special research course is also open to qualified students who wish to pursue individual programs of advanced study in the field.

Classes in accounting, advertising, marketing, taxation, and banking are presented by the department every semester while more advanced courses in international economics, labor problems, and social controls of industry are offered to senior and graduate students.

Also included in the Economics Department is a four-year secretarial course where students learn typing, shorthand, office management, and techniques in operating various machines. A Medical-Secretarial course, combining biology with commerce and finance, is also available. In her senior year, each girl works for a member of the faculty in order to gain secretarial experience.

The department awards degrees of both A.B. in Economics and B.S. in Commerce and Finance. The outstanding students in either field are chosen for the Bucknell chapter of Delta Mu Delta, the national economics honorary fraternity.

history

The History Department is probably most widely known for History 99 and 100, a survey course of the history of Western civilization. The purpose of this department and its instructors, Dr. Oliphant, Dr. Karraker, and Mr. Johnson, are to record and explain past events and the nature of civilization. The courses offered by this department are in the fields of ancient history, European and Eastern history, English history, and American history. The advanced courses in each field offer particular phases of history and intensive study in each one.

Any student who desires to major in history must also fill the requirements of the liberal arts program, since the Bachelor of Arts degree is given in this field of endeavor. The history honorary is Phi Alpha Theta. Its purpose is to recognize and honor those students who are scholastically outstanding in the field.

political science

Through the Political Science Department Bucknell students are offered the opportunity to study American democracy and other types of world government. Courses are offered in Constitutional Law, Comparative Government, Parliamentary Law, Political Theory, and Public Administration. Also, participating in this past presidential election were the members of the American Political Parties course.

The Washington Semester, another division of the Political Science Department, sponsors a limited number of students who spend a semester studying in Washington, D. C. at the American University while receiving credit at Bucknell. Besides pursuing independent research projects in their various fields, these students also attend seminars with government employees, elected officials, and outside interest groups, and take graduate courses in the evenings.

A major in this department may become eligible for Pi Sigma Alpha, the national political science honorary which sponsors lectures and discussions in the political field.

Sociology is the study of how people live together. As a result of these studies a particular language and literature have developed, to which the courses offered by the department introduce the students. The department is organized around an emphasis on analyses, methods of sociological study, and the characteristics of all systematic study in general. With a background in this material, the student is therefore able to use the analytical approaches to later situations in life.

The main task of the department is teaching. Aside from this, however, a great deal of research is carried on by members of the department. These programs, which give students the opportunity to work on actual projects, are concerned with problems in sociological theory such as American communities and the relative participation of Catholic and Protestant groups in higher education. All of these research projects assist the student in understanding the purpose and value of sociology from actual experience in his field of interest.

The Chemistry Department attempts to prepare the undergraduate student for either industrial chemistry, civil service, teaching in high school or college, or graduate study for a career as a research chemist.

One half of the Olin Science Building is devoted to fully equipped lecture rooms and laboratories which are used to introduce the students to general, organic, inorganic, physical, radio and biological chemistry. Original laboratory research investigations in analytical, organic, physical, or biological chemistry may be also undertaken by more advanced students.

Outstanding students may become members of Alpha Chi Sigma, while the American Chemical Society is open to all students. This year many students have also been attracted by the Merck lectures where outstanding scientists come to Bucknell and discuss their field in lectures once a week.

The Biology Department attempts to facilitate a better understanding of living organic matter for the students whose interests lie upon these scientific lines. In so doing, the subject is pursued by actual investigation and research with living specimens and close analysis of preserved organisms. Microscopic study is also utilized in regarding the infinitesimal objects of living matter.

For the further development and pursuit of biological knowledge and research, two departmental groups are offered. Membership in Phi Sigma, the biology honorary, is obtained by submitting a thesis on an independent research project. At the pre-Medical Society meetings, which are open to all those interested in medicine, nursing, dental, or other biological careers, movies and lectures on the various phases and fields of medicine are presented during the year.

mathematics and astronomy

The Mathematics Department offers programs of study which are intended to train its majors in the fields of mathematical research, college teaching, statistics, actuarial science, secondary school teaching, and applied mathematics. This is carried out by extensive study in elementary and lower mathematics, which provide the basis for courses in advanced methods and theory.

Pi Mu Epsilon, the national mathematics honorary chartered at Bucknell in 1925, has as its purpose the recognition of students who have excelled in the field and the pursuit of various mathematical topics through the presentation of demonstrations and speeches.

The purpose of the Astronomy Department is to offer a description of the science, its methods, and a study of the solar system and stellar astronomy, followed by practice in the employment of observatory equipment.

The Physics Department is primarily interested in discovering the pure laws of nature as used by applied scientists in the building of concrete devices. The courses are concerned with mechanics, optics, heat, sound, light, electricity, and atomic structure. For qualified students, selected experimental topics concerning these subjects may be undertaken. Physics majors are required to have twenty-eight hours of the above subjects.

With its staff of five professors, the Physics Department concentrates its efforts on approximately forty students including physics majors, combination science majors, and engineers.

To stimulate interest, the Physics Club, which is open to everyone, has been organized. Students of high scholastic standing may be elected to Sigma Pi Sigma, the physics honorary society, which has been formed to promote student interest in research and advanced study while encouraging professional spirit.

Experimentation proves a law of physics.

geography and geology

The Bucknell Geography and Geology Department educates students in the physical nature of the earth and man's relationship to that earth. This department offers three types of majors: a geography major, a geology major, and a combination of the two. The Geography Department alone offers regional and systematic courses and attempts to develop an understanding of the interrelationship among people, trade, and commerce. The geology students concentrate on rocks, minerals, and geological structures. There are field trips offered in both phases of this department. The geography field trips are taken to see physical and cultural examples in that field. The geology field trips use the surrounding regions for a laboratory to recognize expansion of classroom work.

Also included in the program of the geography department is a regional course on the Soviet Union and a systematic course in climatology.

military science and tactics

The Military Science Department is concerned primarily with the development of leadership qualities in the young men of Bucknell.

The Class of 1957 will be the last one to be commissioned in the Transportation and Engineer Corps branches. With these branches dissolved, a new program of General Military Science has been introduced, the purpose being that those who take this course will be better enabled to get a commission in a branch of the Army of their own choosing.

One of the highlights of the school year is the Military Ball in January, an event sponsored by the Cadet Regiment. Organizations and functions within the R. O. T. C. program include the Officers' club, the Pershing Rifles, and a Rifle Team. Annually, a formal regimental review for federal inspection is held in May. The Cadet Regiment also supervises and directs the annual Homecoming parade each fall.

The Reserve Officers Training Corps has two purposes. The first is to produce junior officers who have the qualities necessary for officers in the Reserve Corps and in the Regular Army. The second purpose is to provide the basis for good citizenship and to give the student the military training that will best benefit him and the military service if he later becomes a member.

In addition to the four years of instruction the student receives here at Bucknell, every student must spend six weeks during the summer between his junior and senior years at summer camp. The purpose of the R. O. T. C. summer camp is to apply all the principles of leadership, courtesy, discipline, and strategy that the student has learned while at the University. While at summer camp, in addition to applying what they already should have learned, the men go on night problems, take their turn at K. P. duty and guard duty, and participate in various other activities unique to the military.

After successful completion of summer camp, a student should be capable of returning to the University in his senior year to assist with the instruction of the underclassmen.

Upon completion of four years of instruction at Bucknell and summer camp, each man is eligible for a commission of 2nd Lieutenant with the necessary approval and sanction of the Department of the Army.

men's physical education

The Men's Physical Education Department attempts to direct individuals to learn activities that will contribute to socially efficient living. The department teaches sports and skills so that participation in them will contribute to the "joy of living, to the wholesome use of leisure, to the creation of character, and to the development of health." After a medical examination, men are divided into three instruction groups: prescribed, basic, and skills.

For freshmen, group-contact sports such as soccer, wrestling, boxing, volleyball, and softball are emphasized. Freshmen who cannot pass a well-balanced swimming test are required to take swimming. For sophomores, recreative sports such as tennis, golf, badminton, handball, bowling, and advanced swimming are offered. These sports are especially emphasized because they are useful enjoyment and will provide aids to good health in later adult life.

Instruction in the history, rules, and strategy concerning all of these sports is also given in addition to the participation and practice of the skills themselves.

Assisted by the Women's Recreation Association, the Women's Physical Education Department offers a variety of intergroup and interclass sports each season beginning with hockey in the fall and including swimming, basketball, volleyball, tennis, bowling, and softball. Although physical education is required only in the freshman and sophomore years, Bucknell is always represented in inter-college competition with such schools as Penn State, Lycoming, and Susquehanna.

Every Bucknell woman is automatically a member of the Women's Recreation Association which is governed by a board of elected representatives from the upperclass women and an appointed freshman representative. Under this program each girl has an opportunity to win awards for participation in interclass sports and to enter activities sponsored by the organization such as May Day, Orchesis, Synchronized Swimming Club, Frosh Picnic, and Awards Banquet held in May. WRA cooperates with the "B" Club to give the Sadie Hawkins Dance in February.

chemical engineering

Chemical engineering is that branch of engineering devoted to the development, design, construction, and operation of industrial plants in which matter undergoes a change.

The class and laboratory work of chemical engineers comprises unit operations, instrumentation, design labs, and a research project for seniors. In addition, all chemical engineers are required to make a trip in their senior year to different industrial plants.

Those students who maintain a high scholastic average in chemistry are eligible for initiation into the national honorary, Alpha Chi Sigma. The club exclusively for chemical engineers is the student chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers. The purpose of this society is to foster a professional attitude in the students toward their work. Speakers in different phases of chemical engineering are often invited to the meetings.

civil engineering

The study of civil engineering is concerned with structural theory and design, hydraulics and water supply, and transportation. It requires extensive work in the basic fields of mathematics, physics, surveying, and mechanics. Laboratory work and actual field programs, such as a location survey of a highway, provide the engineers with experience in utilizing theories and techniques explained in lectures. For more advanced students, independent research projects are pursued in either laboratory work, drafting room design, or library investigations, depending on the nature of the problem selected. At the present time the Civil Engineering Department is working on a research project for the Bureau of Aeronautics of the Department of the Navy, which is concerned with the testing and evaluating of "sandwich panels" for jet and supersonic aircraft.

The student chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers brings together prominent men in the field of civil engineering, and gives student members an opportunity to hear distinguished speakers. This society further enables students to discuss their engineering experiences and to present original technical papers at the annual conventions.

electrical engineering

The principles of mathematics, chemistry and physics, and several courses in the liberal arts field, occupy the first half of the electrical engineering program. After a knowledge of these basic fundamentals has been obtained, further study is pursued in the fields of electronics, communication, and electrical machinery. Under the supervision of Dr. George Irland, laboratory work is done in setting up circuits and observing the operation of electrical machines and electronic devices. Also, independent research is carried on by advanced students in electronics.

The electrical engineering students, to become acquainted with the actual application of classroom theory and experimentation, make several inspection tours annually to manufacturing plants, power stations and laboratories in the surrounding area to observe both equipment and techniques.

A joint branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and the Institute of Radio Engineers, a society for undergraduate electrical engineering students, sponsors trips, banquets, discussions of student papers, and guest speakers who attempt to provide a closer relationship between the student engineer and the professional engineer.

mechanical engineering

The particular field of mechanical engineering is concerned primarily with the design, construction, maintenance, and operation of power machinery other than that which is electrical. This includes knowledge of the generation and use of steam power, internal combustion engines, and turbo-machinery. Thus, mechanical engineering necessitates a thorough understanding of thermodynamics and mechanics.

Also, at the disposal of the department is a large laboratory where the students may learn the fundamentals of mechanical engineering through practical application. Several types of equipment used are diesel and gasoline engines, air compressors, refrigerating units, and turbo-generators.

Mechanical engineers see the application of knowledge obtained in class and laboratory by taking numerous field trips to various industrial plants.

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers is the national professional organization to which most of the mechanical engineers belong. At their bi-monthly meetings they study the current news in their field by inviting speakers from industry or from the educational field of engineering.

In order to keep up with the modern advances in science the department expects to offer courses in nuclear power engineering.

Bucknell's class of 1960 is composed of 623 students, 336 boys and 236 girls, representative of fifteen states plus the District of Columbia. There are also students from Canada, the Canal Zone, Hawaii, Peru, Saudi Arabia, and Venezuela.

With 80 per cent voting, the class chose as its officers Loren "Tyke" Bly, president; Ed McGinley, vice-president; Judy Beery, secretary; and Charles Jenkins, treasurer. It is the job of these freshmen to provide the leadership and organization needed to plan the class activities.

This year the freshman and sophomore classes have combined their efforts for the purpose of sponsoring of activities. By doing this they hoped to increase student support and interest. In January an informal jazz concert was given, and later in the year another freshman-sophomore activity took place.

On December 8, the class gave a "Canteen Dance" in Davis Gym, the boys paying a nickel a dance. The freshman boys built a wishing well in the Sem, the proceeds of which went to the class treasury.

During the Christmas holidays, the social chairmen of all dorms sponsored Christmas caroling and Christmas tree decorating. There was also a post-basketball game party given at Swartz where a school combo performed. This year the freshmen also participated in the Sunday meal rotation program where women ate in Swartz, and freshman men were entertained in the women's dining hall.

In September 1955 the present sophomores entered Bucknell with a class of 611 students. As freshmen the Class of 1959 had the privilege of being the first students to occupy Carey House and Swartz Hall. For their first project the class made boosters for the Homecoming football game against Colgate in order to increase class and school spirit. Two floats represented the Class of 1959 in the Homecoming Parade, and the girls of Carey House won first place in the Homecoming dorm decorations.

At Christmas time the class sang carols to the shut-ins of Lewisburg after which they returned to campus for a Christmas party of their own. The class was well represented by the freshman football and basketball teams. For the last project of their freshman year, the Class of 1959 planned and sponsored a picnic at Cowan with music by Tony Karpee and his band. In the spring the class was presented with the Spirit Trophy as a result of their class and school spirit throughout the year.

Class Council, the main governing body of the class, consists of sophomores representing each fraternity and dorm. The Council's main functions come under the headings of its standing committees—activities, social, and publicity.

This year the sophomores have initiated a new policy concerning their social functions. Rather than sponsoring one social function during the year, the Class of 1959 worked jointly with the freshman class to sponsor two informal social gatherings.

Although the Class of 1958 has diminished in number from 557 students to 393 students, the members have established and worked toward two principal goals for their four-year career. The first goal of the juniors is to gain enough financial sustenance to provide for the many functions in their senior year. Secondly, the class has attempted to promote school spirit as well as class spirit.

In order to accomplish their program, the juniors have maintained a class council for three years, consisting of members elected to aid the officers. These students have planned class activities which are beneficial not only to their own class, but to Bucknell students in general. They have noticeably changed and increased the social functions provided by classes, and have introduced new types of entertainment in an attempt to gain the interest of the entire student body.

During their sophomore year, the class sponsored a Roaring Twenties dance. The social functions of the members as juniors have included a Minstrel Show in November and a Balloon Dance to welcome the freshmen.

The Class of '58 has also encouraged inter-class participation in sports. This year the class representatives won the first interclass swimming competition held in the new Freas-Rooke Swimming Pool. It has been represented by a team for each of the sports competitions, and promoted two Queen candidates in the Homecoming Day program.

The class of 1957 entered Bucknell University in September 1953.

As freshmen they participated in the usual activities, tug-o-war, singing for upperclassmen and Firesides. When it was time for election of class officers, there was an excessively vigorous campaign for the candidates. Election being over, the class council decided that there was a better way of conducting elections at Bucknell, and they revised the election routine.

That first year the class went Christmas caroling; sponsored the variety show, "Class of Fifty-Seven," and held a class picnic at Cowan.

In the years 1951 and 1955 the class held Tribunal for the freshmen. As sophomores they sponsored the Student-Faculty Donkey Basketball game and a Pajama Dance as their money raising projects.

Junior year the class sold noise makers and provided entertainment at the football games. They helped to sponsor the Homecoming Dance and held a bridge tournament for the student body as a whole. This year the girls of the class pledged and carried out the revision of the Women's Honor System.

As seniors, along with holding the top positions of the student organizations, the class had the Senior Prom, were instrumental in arranging the Military Ball and all participated in Graduation Week.

This final year, the women students realized the culmination of the Honor System with the appointment of seniors as head residents in the small dorms.

Larison Hall and the adjoining Bucknell Cottage are residence halls for freshman women. Larison is the oldest dorm for women: the main building was erected in 1857 and the South Wing in 1870. In 1950 the central portion was remodeled, and now has four floors. Approximately one hundred and twenty women, distributed in seven hall groups each with a junior counselor, are housed in Larison. In addition to the women's rooms, Larison contains an office for the dean of women, the head resident's suite, two living rooms, and a dining hall. Miss Virginia Wolfram is the head resident, and Miss Annette Maccari, the assistant head resident.

Bucknell Cottage was built in 1839. There are four hall groups with a total of about fifty women living on the three floors of the Cottage.

harris hall

Harris Hall, located in the center of the Women's Quadrangle, was the second large women's dormitory built at Bucknell. It was built in 1905, in the days of "The Female Institute" and was first referred to as "The New Cottage." Later it was given its present name to honor John Howard Harris who was president of Bucknell from 1889 to 1919. From its original use as a "home for seventy young women and as a gymnasium on the fourth floor," Harris has expanded to its present use as a dormitory for one hundred and fourteen sophomore girls. They occupy the first, second, and third floors, while the top floor of the building is still used for archery and table tennis classes by the Women's Physical Education Department. The building is the center of much activity in the Women's College for on its ground floor are situated the Women's College Post Office, bulletin boards, and offices and storerooms used by various campus organizations. Head resident of Harris is Miss Francine L. Klotz, assistant dean of women; she is aided by two senior assistant head residents, Susan Wien and Jane Masters.

the houses

Thirteen houses situated on the campus provide homes for a large segment of Bucknell women of all classes. Living rooms and kitchen facilities enable the girls in these houses to plan teas, open houses, and parties, while decorating the houses for Homecoming is one of the highlights of activity for the year. Elected house officers coordinate these and other social events planned by the girls while setting the tone of activity in each house.

HULLEY HOUSE

Edwards, Carey, and Stephens Houses are occupied by freshman women, and upper-class women live in the other ten houses. Three houses have been set aside to give women students an opportunity to increase their proficiency in French, German, and Spanish, and girls majoring in one of these languages must live in the appropriate language house for one year. The head residents of these houses are natives of the respective countries. Informal conversation hours open to everyone are held in the language houses on weekday afternoons.

This year, the head residents of upper-class houses, with the exception of the language houses, are senior women chosen by the University. This unusual experimental arrangement is based on the honor and maturity of women living in these houses.

Each house has a well-equipped kitchen available for quick snacks.

HUNT HALL.

hunt hall

Hunt Hall, the largest of the women's dormitories, is also the newest. It was built in 1928 and named after Emory William Hunt, the fifth president of Bucknell. The five floors of Hunt Hall provide residence for the majority of the junior and senior women and house the nine suites for the sororities. For the convenience of the girls living in Hunt, sewing, ironing, and kitchen facilities are provided. On the first floor is located the suite of Miss Joyce Lines, the head resident.

Many of the groups on campus use Hunt Hall for their meetings and functions. The recreation room is used for student receptions, teas, and as a meeting room for leadership groups. The main living room, re-decorated this year, serves as the official reception room for faculty and administration.

Each year the residents of Hunt hold several informal gatherings to maintain the unity of the dormitory. These include coffee hours, vacation parties, and the decorating party for Homecoming Weekend. Open houses are also held in addition to the special Pan-Hellenic tour and tea for freshman women.

Swartz Hall is located south of the Bertrand Library and is adjacent to the Memorial Stadium. This new dormitory was completed in the summer of 1955, and its general structure is in keeping with the brick colonial architecture which dominates the campus. The main section contains a lounge with television, where the boys may congregate and entertain guests. Conferences may be held in a portion of the lounge specifically designed for this purpose. The living quarters, consisting of 110 rooms and housing 230 freshman men are situated in two wings. All freshman men eat in the John Houghton Harris Dining Hall.

The residence hall was named in honor of the late James S. Swartz, who was for forty-seven years a member of the Bucknell University Board of Trustees and a generous benefactor.

Erected originally as a dormitory in 1850 with the central portion providing classrooms and an assembly room. Main College was the first building of the four making up the Quad. It now houses faculty and administrative offices, a post office, bank, and men's living quarters.

East College, erected in 1907, is the residence for approximately one hundred men; and West College, built in 1900 is used for classroom, administrative and men's dormitory purposes. These buildings make up the two other sides of the rectangle.

Completing the Quad is Carnegie Building, formerly the Carnegie Library, which now includes the Student Bookstore, a lounge, and offices.

bucknell village

Bucknell Village is a housing development maintained by the University as a home for married students and their families. These white frame buildings, containing apartments for fifty families, are located just off the campus across Route 15.

Bucknell Village has its own governing body, the Bucknell Village Association, to which new officers are elected each semester. It is through this group that safety, fire, and other regulations are established and maintained. Under the direction of the Association, the community also sponsors several functions during the year including an annual Christmas Party to help the residents become better acquainted with one another. A Wives' Club has also been formed in the Village which sponsors various social activities for the families living there.

student – faculty congress

The Student-Faculty Congress serves as a co-ordinating organization for all campus activities. Presidents of the classes, representatives from all of the leading organizations on campus, and members of the faculty and administration meet to discuss and settle controversial issues. Thus, school policies, student-faculty misunderstandings, and student complaints are considered with every viewpoint on the campus represented. It is the task of the Congress to hear these problems, discuss them, and issue recommendations toward their solution.

S. F. C. also directs all-campus activities such as the procedure for class elections and the Artist Series; sets the budgets for all student organizations; produces the Spring Festival; and establishes the Freshman Rules Committee.

The individual student has the opportunity to participate through the activities and committees set up by the Student-Faculty Congress.

From the Junior Class each year seventeen women are chosen counselors for the freshman women by the deans of women and the counselors from the preceding year. Having the necessary 1.7 scholastic average, and indicating they would like to be counselors, these girls are selected for leadership ability, friendliness, and participation in campus activities. Each is assigned to a freshman hall group of twelve to sixteen girls, with whom she lives for the entire year, guiding and advising them when necessary in all phases of campus life.

Junior and senior men with a 1.25 average or better may apply to be counselors for the freshmen. Those finally decided upon are chosen by the Assistant Dean of Men, Mr. Carhart; Dr. Gross, the Head Resident of Swartz; and the present counselors. The men are selected on the basis of their application, the results of a personality test, friendliness, understanding, and leadership ability. These men are then assigned to live with a group of freshmen boys, whom they advise and help during their first year of college life at Bucknell.

The Women's Student Government Association, of which every Bucknell woman is a part, is the main governing apparatus for the women's college. The purpose of this organization, besides dealing with the daily problems of campus and dormitory life, is to strengthen the personal integrity of its members by urging them to accept individual responsibility under the social honor system.

Bicameral in structure, W. S. G. A. is composed of a House of Representatives which represents each dormitory hall group and a Senate elected from the upper classes. To settle questions which arise concerning infractions of the W. S. G. A. rules, the judiciary branch or Honor Council was created. W. S. G. A., to promote student-faculty relations, sponsors the annual Student-Faculty Banquet and the Faculty Tea. Each April the W. S. G. Its purpose is to act as the judicial and advisory council for all male students, investigating, solving, and disciplining all cases involving men students and aiding the House of Representatives in an advisory capacity. The House of Representatives, which serves as the representative body of all male students at Bucknell, sponsors projects that are designed to develop a spirit of unity throughout the men. leadership Bucknell University has chapters of three national activity honoraries which recognize leadership on campus. These are Mortar Board, a service organization which honors senior women; Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary for men; and Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, a national organization which publishes names of outstanding seniors in an annual publication. Mortar Board taps nine women from the junior class each spring at the W. S. G. A. Moving-Up-Day program, basing its choice on scholarship, leadership, and service. Active on campus, the organization's projects are numerous and dedicated to its purposes of service to the school. O. D. K. brings together junior and senior men who rank in the highest 35% of male students in scholarship and have attained special distinction in some phase of collegiate activities. Members of Who's Who are selected by the vote of their classmates on nominations made by individual organizations and judged by a special committee.

In that the ultimate goal of a college student is scholarship, its attainment is accompanied by the recognition of achievement by the university as well as a personal sense of satisfaction.

Recognition is given to those freshman men and women who attain a 2.5 average first semester, or a cumulative 2.5 for the first year, by the respective academic honoraries, Phi Eta Sigma and Alpha Lambda Delta. Phi Eta Sigma annually promotes scholarship by the distribution of study pamphlets, and Alpha Lambda Delta by the maintenance of a scholarship fund.

Tau Beta Pi is an honorary for those undergraduate engineers who have attained distinguished scholarship and display exemplary character. Its complement for those seeking a Bachelor of Arts or Science degree is Phi Beta Kappa. To be eligible for this highest scholastic honorary it is necessary to achieve an academic record which places one in the upper one-tenth of the junior class or the upper one-fifth of the senior class. The gold key of Phi Beta Kappa signifies a mature personality and an intense worldly interest as well as an excellent scholastic record.

board of publications and radio

Miss Trennie E. Eisley, director of public relations, is chairman of the Board of Publications and Radio. The two other officers, elected by the Board annually, are the student secretary and the student representative to Student-Faculty Congress. The group is composed of the director and manager of WVBU, the campus broadcasting station, and also the editors and business managers of the student publications, L'AGENDA, Touché, the Bucknellian, and the Bucknell Engineer. The Board also has several faculty advisers and administrative officers.

The purpose of the Board, which has been in existence since 1933, is to supervise the operation of student publications and radio work and to serve as a regulating body. One of the Board's many duties is to establish a scholastic standard which must be maintained by the editor and business manager of each group represented. The Board also approves appointments to the major staff positions. No student publication bearing the University name may be established without the consent of the Board, and the Board's approval is also necessary for those soliciting for any of the publications.

Mr. Kepler coaxes a smile from a solemn senior.

"The Book" is assembled for the presses.

L'AGENDA, the annual student yearbook published each spring, is an attempt to present as complete a picture of Bucknell life as possible. To achieve this goal, there are sections and pictures concerning the faculty, academic program, administration, activities, organizations, sports, the classes, and views of dormitory life.

The completely student staff of L'AGENDA consists of over one hundred and fifty members. Of these, seniors hold the major editorships while underclassmen hold junior editorships and other staff positions.

The staff of the 1957 L'AGENDA has selected for this year a modern mode of expression to be carried out with the black, white, and red color theme, as evidenced in the art work, lay-out design, and hard-backed cover of the book.

The staff works late on the Election Issue.

The Bucknellian, the college newspaper, staffed entirely by student personnel, serves primarily the undergraduates, but also alumni and professors by reporting important news and by publicizing all activities. The news articles cover such fields as administrative rulings, student government actions, club news, social functions, and sporting events. The paper also provides thought stimulation in the editorials and weekly columns, such as "The Nth Column"; and it gives readers the opportunity to express their opinions through "The Campus Inquiry" and "Letters To The Editors". The work for each issue begins a week before it is circulated at an editorial staff meeting Thursday night. The next step is for assignments to be made, after which the incoming copy is proof-read and taken to the printers. Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons the eight pages are made up, and headlines are written. Finally the work is finished when the circulation staff distributes the final product Thursday. Mr. Robert Ewing acts as adviser to the publication. Because 1956 was an election year, part of The Bucknellian staff stayed up all election night to publish a special, four-page, "Eisenhower Landslide" issue Wednesday morning.

The men in the back room of Focht Printing Company keep the presses rolling weekly.

The Bucknell Student Handbook was published this year by the University Christian Association. The Handbook provides a complete guide to every phase of campus life.

University rules are included covering such things as class attendance, quality credits, automobile registration, and graduation requirements. The M. S. A. and W. S. G. A. conduct regulations are completely printed along with the constitutions and by-laws. A list of the members of the administration and their duties plus the numerous and varying services offered by the University provide a source of reference. To help the student decide upon outside activities, the various extracurricular organizations and their purposes and activities are listed. Fraternities, sororities, student government and religious groups are also included in other sections. All varsity sports and a schedule of games for the year may be found in the athletic section.

Organizationally, the staff of some 120 students is divided into eight sections each with an individual editor and a separate business staff. There is an individual editor for copy, photography, and a head secretary, all of whom are responsible to the student editor and his assistant.

bucknell engineer

The Bucknell Engineer is a quarterly magazine published by the students of the school of engineering. The purpose of the journal is to keep the students informed about recent developments in the civil, chemical, mechanical, and electrical branches of engineering. The magazine also provides the engineers with an opportunity to publish the results of their own seminar projects and independent research.

The magazine also contains material in a more humorous vein, such as "The Dynamic of Lipstick," and jokes written by the students. Alumni and engineering honorary news is also included along with book reviews and brain twisters contributed by the engineers.

The Bucknell Engineer also attempts to keep students well informed about the world and atmosphere of the professional engineering field by publishing other pertinent articles. Circulation includes Bucknell's engineering students, faculty, and alumni, and approximately one hundred high schools in the surrounding area.

Besides giving the students an opportunity to develop their technical writing ability, the publication also provides a means for experience in business management and journalistic practices which are also used in professional engineering.

K. Sandbank, business manager; M. Hage, L. Steele, co-editors.

This year marks the third year of publication for Touché, the campus literary and humor magazine. Touché gives students an opportunity to express their creative abilities in the serious and humorous vein while providing experience in business management, layout procedures, art, advertising, and other jobs necessary in publication and writing.

The content of Touché is varied, as it contains intellectual essays, dramatic criticism, humorous satire, and a variety of types in the short story line. The magazine is published four times a year by an entirely student staff, and is distributed to other colleges in the country and throughout the neighboring towns.

This year the student editors of Touché are Larry Steele and Myrna Hage. The business manager is Kenneth Sandbank. The staff meets weekly and the editors more often in the planning the organization of each issue. The major editorships of the magazine and the office of business manager are filled by appointment approved by the University Board of Publication and Radio.

Touché works to keep a connection between the various campus organizations and the student body, giving them coverages wherein to set down their ideals and purposes, as well as by printing solely narrative material. The magazine is constantly trying to broaden its scope.

WVBU

WVBU, the Bucknell University radio station, daily provides the campus with a variety of programs including news, sports, special events, "on the spot" reports, and music and request shows. The station is entirely student-operated, being headed by the station manager and a board of directors, elected annually by the members. Students plan and present their own programs after completing a stipulated period of apprenticeship. In addition to broadcasting, members are occupied with engineering, business management, publicity, advertising, filing, carpentry, and other general station tasks. Including a collection of more than twenty-five hundred records and transcribed discs, WVBU is equipped with a United Press Teletype, a tape recorder, and has recently replaced its console with a completely new unit to improve the sound quality of the program.

cap and dagger

Cap and Dagger is the dramatic organization at Bucknell University. As its major function it presents three full-length dramas a year. "Caine Mutiny Court Martial" and Shakespeare's "As You Like It" were two of the plays produced this year. Each spring in conjunction with the University Players, Cap and Dagger puts on a musical, this year "South Pacific." Shaw's "Saint Joan" was the final play of the season.

Another important aspect of Cap and Dagger is the sponsoring of an actor's lab and an actor's workshop to help those students who are interested in obtaining experience in the field of dramatics or who are considering dramatics as a career.

Membership in Cap and Dagger is achieved by means of a point system. Points may be earned by working on committees for the plays; after a total of eighteen points has been earned, a student is eligible for membership.

This group accepts no financial aid from the university, and its plays are completely student directed, produced and managed. Theta Alpha Phi, the national dramatics honorary, suggests the plays Cap and Dagger is to present.

The University Theatre Fund, sponsored by Cap and Dagger, is now working to obtain sufficient financial aid to erect a small theatre here on the Bucknell campus.

One of the musical organizations on campus is the Bucknell University Marching Band. Appearing in blue and white western-styled uniforms this year, they claimed the distinction of being the only western band in the northeastern section of this country. Directing the seventy-five member band is Allen W. Flock assisted by the student director, Richard Berggren. William Moyer held the job as business manager, and Lee Rankin was personnel manager. Leading the band in its football intermission drills this season was Ellena Faye Steinman, head drum-majorette, who is a Senior from East Greenville, Pennsylvania. Her fellow majorettes were Loretta Clemens, Carole Vought, Carol Burrows, and Nancy von Glahn.

The Bison Band started its yearly activities quite early in the fall by participating in the fifth annual pre-school band camp conducted at a lodge in the Pocono Mountains. Here the band rehearsed for five days, perfecting marching drills during the day, performing marching exhibitions at night for the neighboring towns, and rehearsing concert music. During the fall the band performed at all possible home and away football games with drills entitled "A Trip to Disneyland," "Oklahoma" and "Vote." These drills were written and designed by band members with Mr. Flock's guidance. They also played at all Friday night pep rallies. In October they marched in the Halloween parades of Sunbury and Lewisburg where they were awarded cash prizes.

When the football season was over, the marching band became the Symphonic Band through the addition of several extra instruments. Their first appearance as a concert band was in December when they presented a joint concert with the Lewisburg High School Chorus as part of the High School's Christmas program. The Symphonic Band also presented two other performances which were held on the lawn outside the Women's dormitories in the Fall and Spring. The final concerts of the band were on its week's tour of Northern New Jersey and Southeastern Pennsylvania where it played for high schools in the area. Besides marches and popular selections, the band's repertoire included such works as "The Pines of Rome" and "The Cathedral Chorus."

men's glee club

The Men's Glee Club is one of the organizations at Bucknell designed to give musically inclined students an opportunity to develop their talents while simultaneously providing a means of enjoyment.

The ninety members rehearse twice a week and participate in the musical programs for Dad's Day, Homecoming, May Day, and the annual Music Festival held in the Spring, and a special chapel program given in co-operation with the Women's Glee Club. In addition, the group also does local radio broadcasting.

Each year the Glee Club tours through the Middle Atlantic States early in February where they perform for various schools and organizations.

The Women's Glee Club, one of the active music organizations on campus, is composed of ninety-five members of all academic fields. Directed by Mr. Allen Flock, the group participates in many concerts throughout the year at Bucknell by singing for Dad's Day, Homecoming, May Day, and the Music Festival. One of the main highlights of the year is the annual mid-year tour, covering parts of Pennsylvania, North Jersey, Long Island, and New York. A special feature was a performance before 1200 people at the Consistory in Harrisburg last fall.

After the members are chosen at auditions in the spring and fall, they have regular practices every Monday and Thursday evening. The student manager is Nancy Edwards, and her assistant is Carol Erickson.

The Chapel Choir is an a cappella organization of approximately sixty voices. The Choir specializes in religious music and uses from four to eight part harmony. It meets twice a week to prepare for the programs it presents, and one credit a year is given to its members. Mr. William McRae, the chairman of the Music Department, is the director, and also conducts the two try-outs a year for those who wish to become members.

The Chapel Choir represents Bucknell University each year on its fall and spring tours. Different areas from nearby states are visited and the tours last usually from three to four days. Also, every Wednesday morning in Chapel a part of the Choir is seen contributing the anthem of the morning. A rotational system is set up so only thirty members sing at each Chapel, but the entire Choir is presented to the University at the annual Christmas music service. The purpose of the Chapel Choir is not only to benefit its listeners, but also to add to the musical knowledge and enjoyment of its members.

In co-operation with the Mixed Chorus, the orchestra annually presents a Christmas Oratorio and also provides orchestration for the University Players in their dramatic productions.

This year a concert tour was made during February to Williamsport, Jersey Shore, Lock Haven, Selinsgrove, Harrisburg, and other parts of the surrounding area.

To be a member of the orchestra a student must have a definite interest in music while exhibiting a qualified performance standard.

modern dance group

Under the direction of the Physical Education Department, the Modern Dance Group presents two programs each year. The first of these programs is presented in December. This year a history of dance was demonstrated beginning with the primitive style and concluding with modern impressionistic dancing. The other program is given for the Mother's Day celebration in collaboration with the Women's Glee Club and the Women's Recreation Association. This year the program was centered around a western theme.

A component part of the upperclass group is the Freshman Apprentice Modern Dance Club. It was formed to give experience to the freshmen before entering the advanced group.

The coordination of these two groups strives to bring the art of dance to the Bucknell women.

The purpose of the Christian Association is to "help students to gain a deeper realization of, and a closer relation to God." It participates in the orientation of new students by directing the Freshman Camp and the Firesides Program. Each week the student is offered an opportunity for thought and prayer in Chapel, Morning Watch, and Nine-Thirty Class.

Internationally-minded people may participate in Burma-Bucknell Week-end and the World University Service. During Religion-in-Life Week students are able to discuss their own beliefs and those of others with noted religious leaders of every faith. These activities are under the direction of a student executive Cabinet, consisting of seventeen members: Mr. Forrest Brown, the General Secretary; and an Advisory Council.

Mr. F. Brown, secretary; R. Long, president;
Mr. M. Ebersole, chairman.

For the use of the University the Christian Association has provided a recreation center, located at Cowan, Pennsylvania. This fall saw the completion of a new lodge which was constructed from contributions of students and alumni. First used for Freshman Camp this September, it was finally dedicated October 28. The Lodge is a ranch-type building with a large living room and modern kitchen with separate dormitory rooms which accommodate sixty students, and chaperons' quarters. Picnic and sports areas are situated close by. The new Lodge is designed to provide accommodations for conferences, banquets, retreats, and social functions.

Bucknell's Panhellenic Council provides a meeting place where two delegates from each of the nine sororities on campus can work together co-operatively. The main purpose of the organization is to create good inter-group relationships by freely discussing rushing policies, pledging procedures, and other sorority interests. In this way, Panhellenic Council intends to unify the interests of the women students by providing a medium that becomes a forum for discussion.

Panhellenic further encourages uniformity among groups and good scholarship and good conduct within the sororities by maintaining standards and enforcing rules and regulations pertaining to rushing, pledging, and initiation.

Panhellenic sponsors several cultural, social, and athletic events which are planned and carried out by various sub-committees of Panhellenic. The cultural chairman organizes a spring and fall fashion show, while the social service chairman directs a project to help the girls at Laurelton by collecting old jewelry among the women students. In addition, an inter-sorority sports program is maintained by the sportsmanship committee. The Rushing Rules Committee is responsible for evaluating and formulating the regulations of the rushing system.

In co-operation with I. F. C. Panhellenic sponsors an all-college formal dance in the fall. The sororities also work with fraternities in planning Homecoming Floats and Christmas parties. Panhellenic attempts to promote the ideal of good scholarship by awarding a scholarship each year to a deserving woman student and a scholarship trophy, established and promoted by the Local Council, to the sorority which has maintained the highest scholastic average for each year.

Alpha Chi Omega social sorority was founded on October 15, 1885, at De Pauw University, Greencastle, Indiana. Today there are 81 collegiate chapters. The colors of Alpha Chi Omega are scarlet and olive green, and its flower is the red carnation.

The Bucknell Eta chapter of Alpha Chi was founded on June 16, 1898. The chapter has, among its activities, the making of self-help toys for children with cerebral palsy, which is in connection with the national philanthropic project to aid in curing and caring for those afflicted with cerebral palsy. Also on the national scale, the Bucknell chapter helps support the McDowell colony, which is a haven for artists when they are in the midst of composing, writing, or painting.

Locally, Alpha Chi Omega carries out a service project each month, two of which have become traditional. One consists of giving a Thanksgiving dinner to a needy family, and the other is a Christmas party with Sigma Chi fraternity for a group of Lewisburg children. Each year the Eta chapter also visits and entertains at the Evangelical Old Folks Home.

It is another tradition of the chapter to award an annual scholarship to a non-member and recognize its own members who have achieved high scholastic standing.

Social activities for the group include an overnight trip to Cowan, Mother's Day and Father's Day Breakfasts, Homecoming float, Junior-Senior picnic, pledge formal and picnic, and a symposium banquet for all past and present members on graduation weekend.

Alpha Phi International Fraternity was founded on October 10, 1872 at Syracuse University. The Bucknell Chapter was founded on February 11, 1918. At present there are 57 chapters and 163 alumnae groups established throughout the United States and Canada.

Alpha Phi was responsible for the first inter-sorority conference in 1902, which subsequently developed into the National Panhellenic Conference.

Alpha Phi is identified by its official badge, the Greek letter Phi with the letter Alpha superimposed upon it. The colors are bordeaux and silver grey, and the sorority flowers are the lily-of-the-valley and forget-me-not, while the sorority symbols are the star constellation Ursa Major and the traditional ivy leaf.

A heavily endowed women's fraternity Alpha Phi maintains a loan fund and two scholarship funds for its members, one being for undergraduates and one for graduate study.

Among the sorority's international philanthropic projects is the annual Christmas card sale for the benefit of the Cardiac Foundation. This project has been in existence for the past nine years. The money is allotted to hospitals for numerous patients suffering from heart ailments and for fellowships in the field of research for heart disease.

At the end of each semester the Bucknell chapter of Alpha Phi holds a shower for all engaged girls who are graduating and each year the mothers are invited to a Mother's Day Breakfast. The chapter actively participates in the Bucknell athletic program for women students. This year they won the first inter-sorority swimming meet.

Alpha Sigma Alpha was founded at Longwood College, Farmville, Virginia, on November 15, 1901. There are forty college chapters of Alpha Sigma Alpha and 100 chapters throughout the United States and Hawaii.

The aim of Alpha Sigma Alpha is to establish a sisterhood that shall have for its fourfold object the physical, intellectual, social, and spiritual development of its members, thus aiding its members to develop friendliness, poise, personality, purpose, character, and culture.

The pin of Alpha Sigma Alpha is a shield of black enamel with four concave sides, superimposed upon a similarly shaped shield of gold. The badge displays the sorority letters, a star, and a crown. The pledge pin is a silver shield with concave sides, with the sorority letters raised against a conventional design of the rising sun. Sorority flowers are the aster and the narcissus. Crimson and pearl white are the colors of the sorority; supplementary colors being palm green and gold. The Alpha Sigma Alpha official magazine, The Phoenix, is published four times a year giving news about the different chapters.

Alpha Sigma Alpha's Philanthropic Project is centered this year around making aids for retarded and crippled children. A traditional Christmas party is held for orphans and also a Christmas carol sing for the Old Folks' Home.

Beta Omega's chapter activities on the Bucknell campus include participation in decorating a Homecoming float, Mother's Day Breakfast, senior banquet, and a Symposium to renew acquaintances with returning alumnae after graduation in the spring.

Delta Delta Delta was founded at Boston University in November, 1888, and has grown to include 99 chapters whose total membership is approximately 56,200. Tau chapter was founded at Bucknell on April 27, 1904. The sorority's flower is the pansy, and its colors are silver, gold, and blue. Its pin is a crescent upon which stand three stars set with pearls; the trident serves as a guard. Its symbols are the pine and the pearl. The main philanthropy of the sorority is to provide scholarships each semester for needy students on each campus.

The Tri-Delts at Bucknell have a long list of chapter activities and traditions. Every Homecoming they sell mums to raise money for their first semester scholarship; in the spring, they can be seen shining shoes at the fraternity houses for the scholarship offered second semester. Since the SAE's are their brother fraternity, many Tri-Delt activities are held with them, such as the traditional fall soccer game, the annual Christmas party, the spring pledge dance and picnic, and various dinners and other get-togethers throughout the year.

Before Christmas, the chapter holds its traditional decorating-the-tree party prior to the Pine Party where gifts are exchanged. A Mother's Day Breakfast is held on the Sunday of that spring weekend every year, and in May the seniors are honored by the senior cozy and the Pansy Breakfast. This year, the chapter is inaugurating an Engaged Senior Women's Breakfast, which was also held at the end of the year.

Delta Zeta sorority was founded on October 21, 1902, at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. Beta Theta chapter was established at Bucknell on September 21, 1930, and was the sixth national sorority to be represented on campus.

The colors of Delta Zeta are old rose and vieux green, and the official flower is the Killarny rose.

Among the annual activities of Delta Zeta are participation in the construction of a Homecoming float, a Christmas party for underprivileged children given with the brother fraternity Delta Upsilon, a Big-and-Little-Sister Christmas party, and a "mock rush party" given by the new pledges for the active members each spring. This year the group went on an autumn retreat held at Cowan. Food for Thanksgiving dinner and a basket of staple food supplies was given to a needy family in the Lewisburg community.

The national organization of Delta Zeta works for the deaf as its major philanthropic project. In addition to providing hearing aids for needy children, it has undertaken the task of aiding Galludet College for the Deaf in Washington, D. C., which is the only school of higher learning for the deaf in the country.

A yearly tradition of Beta Theta chapter is the Senior Send-Off Breakfast given for the graduating class each spring and the annual Christmas Bazaar, recently established, which is held each December for the benefit of Galludet College. All of the articles sold at the Bazaar are made by the members of the sorority.

On October 23, 1897, Kappa Delta became a national sorority, adopting the white rose as its flower, and olive green and pearl white as its colors. Phi Tau chapter of Kappa Delta was installed at Bucknell University on June 12, 1915.

The object of the sorority is the promotion of good friendship, the development of interest in scholarship and social activities, and the furthering of charitable purposes. National Kappa Delta, with the aid of local chapters, strives to attain these goals by means of various activities. Phi Tau encourages participation and leadership in campus activities ranging from competitive sports to student government.

Pledges of Phi Tau learn these objectives through sorority activities. The pledge project, which is waiting on tables at fraternity houses, serves to aid national Kappa Delta in its support of the Crippled Children's Hospital at Richmond, Virginia. Additional chapter projects such as bake sales and argyle sales are further means of obtaining funds.

Social events of Phi Tau include intergroup cozies, a Mother's Day breakfast, and a Homecoming breakfast for alumnae. It is traditional for Kappa Delta, in conjunction with Phi Gamma Delta and Sigma Alpha Mu respectively, to sponsor Christmas parties for needy children. The Annual White Rose Formal in the spring culminates a week of pledging activities which is followed by the initiation of new members. An annual spring retreat gives the chapter an opportunity to leave campus for a weekend of recreation. The sorority year is completed with a symposium dinner for Phi Tau and its alumnae.

Kappa Kappa Gamma Fraternity was founded at Monmouth College on October 13, 1870. The fraternity colors are light and dark blue, and its flower is the fleur-de-lis. The fraternity headquarters are in Columbus, Ohio, and it is there that the Kappa magazine, The Key, is published quarterly.

Delta Phi Chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma was founded at Bucknell October 30, 1948. During the eight years since then, Kappa Kappa Gammas have taken part in many activities on campus as well as within the group. In the winter they join with the Phi Beta Phi's to celebrate their founding with a Monmouth Duo Dance. In the spring there are a breakfast at Red Rock, a "mock rush party" given by the freshman members and a pledge dance held before the formal initiation ceremony for new members.

Nationally Kappa Kappa Gamma provides assistance in the educational field. It offers undergraduate scholarships to its members, graduate scholarships to American students based on a competitive system without regard to sorority affiliation and foreign fellowships to women students from all over the world. The Dorothy Canfield Fisher French-Relief Program was also organized by Kappa Kappa Gamma. It has also sponsored schools in Bas-Meudon, adopted needy French children financially, and sent children to camps and health colonies.

The Bucknell chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma has adopted as its philanthropic project to help through the Save-the-Children Foundation, a Greek boy, Michael, whose parents do not have the means to support him properly.

In January, 1852, Phi Mu was organized as the Philomathean Society. The Society obtained its charter from Wesleyan College on March 1, 1852. The name of the group was changed in 1901 to Phi Mu Fraternity, and a new charter was obtained from the state of Georgia. The flower of Phi Mu is the Enchantress carnation, the colors are rose and white, and the pin is in the shape of a shield.

Beta Kappa chapter was established at Bucknell University on November 10, 1922. Members of the local sorority, Eta Sigma, obtained approval from the national convention and the installation of the original thirty members of Beta Kappa was performed.

The Memorial Fund, composed of the Founder's Day pennies is used for scholarships and loans. Each year every Phi Mu contributes to this fund at the rate of one penny for each year the fraternity has existed.

Other philanthropies of Phi Mu include the Healthmobiles established to provide medical care for less fortunate residents of Georgia, and the toy carts which are made by collegiate chapters and given to the children's ward of local hospitals. Phi Mu's also spend many hours in volunteer service in hospitals, clinics, and other centers of child welfare. Phi Mu has extended the social service to include the adoption of war orphans, aid for countries in need, and financial and material help for foreign students. Phi Mu also gives an annual scholarship to a young woman from a foreign country for study in the United States.

Pi Beta Phi was established at Bucknell in 1895. It has grown to 102 chapters since its founding as the first women's sorority in 1867 under the name of I. C. Sorosis at Monmouth College, Monmouth, Illinois. Its colors are wine and silver blue; the flower is the wine carnation. The badge is the golden arrow.

In 1910, Pi Beta Phi organized the first national altruistic project by establishing a Settlement School for the mountain people of Gatlinburg, Tennessee. This project has now grown to include a fully accredited school system, a Health Center, and an Arrowcraft Shop, where handicrafts in weaving made by the residents are sold. Goods from this shop are sent to all of the alumni and active chapters in order to raise money. An outgrowth of the Arrowcraft Shop is a summer Workshop in crafts planned annually with the University of Tennessee.

In addition to this project, the national supports four scholarships and a loan fund for members in need of financial aid.

Pi Beta Phi was the first women's fraternity to organize a national alumnae department whereby reunions of the alumnae members of the fraternity are arranged. This alumnae organization is largely responsible for the compilation of the sorority quarterly magazine, The Arrow, which tell news of the different chapters throughout the country.

Pi Beta Phi has as its established goals good scholarship, high standards of personal conduct, courtesy, consideration, co-operation, and participation in extra-curricular activities, such as sports participation, the Homecoming Float, and the Pledge Formal.

The purpose of the National Interfraternity Council is to promote and coordinate the aims and activities of the fraternity movement on a national scale in accordance with the belief that fraternities are responsible for positive contributions to the primary functions of colleges and universities. This purpose is carried out through the encouragement of a more complete intellectual, social, and physical development of the members.

The Bucknell Interfraternity Council, which is made up of representatives from each of the thirteen fraternities, is the coordinating body of the fraternity system of the University. The general principles set forth by the Bucknell Interfraternity Council and the National Council stipulate that fraternity activities and objectives should be in accordance with the aims and purposes of the University as evidenced by loyalty to the institution, promotion of good taste and morals, an atmosphere conducive to intellectual progress, the maintenance of sanitary and wholesome conditions in the chapter house, and in inculcation of good business practices.

The specific functions of the Interfraternity Council include government and promotion of activities, and interfraternity and University rules pertaining to men's rushing are upheld by the Council through discussion and disciplinary action. The Council promotes the social life at Bucknell by regulation of the social activities of the fraternities such as parties, open houses, and dances. The IFC-Pan-Hell dance is sponsored each year by the Council in conjunction with the women's Pan-Hellenic Council, while the fraternity athletic intramural program also comes under the jurisdiction of the Council.

The Bucknell Demosthenean Chapter of Delta Upsilon was founded in 1899. It is one of 69 chapters comprising the national organization, with justice as its foundation. The chapter colors are sapphire blue and old gold.

In 1941 DU's took up residence in their present house, which has sleeping capacity for 37 members. Previous to that year they were members of the local Delta Sigma chapter, and lived in Hulley House, now a women's dormitory.

Six years ago the Chapter adopted "Benny", a crippled dog from Lewisburg whom they escort to home football games and visit regularly. Yearly "good-will" trips to the Sunbury orphanage are made by many of the brothers.

Each year the Demies present a play featuring an all-male cast: this fall they sponsored a minstrel show in its place. A unique Christmas party is held annually for Bucknell professors.

At Homecoming ten DU's copped the Interfraternity Song-fest. Delta Upsilon has placed either first or second in both athletics and scholarship for the past five years. They received first place scholarship honors for the 1956 spring semester. This fall D. U. captured both the bowling and the cross-country cups; during February they won the intramural basketball competition.

The most recent national achievement of Bucknell D. U.'s was taking top honors in Province III, which is composed of thirteen D. U. chapters.

Second semester officers include: Paul Manning, president; Nile Lestrangle, vice president; Robert Hubbard, secretary; and Jon Minnich, treasurer.

Kappa Delta Rho was founded as Iota chapter at Bucknell in 1921. The chapter is one of 25 representing the fraternity throughout the country. The fraternity colors are Middlebury Blue and Princeton Orange. The fraternity badge is one of the few in which the Greek letters alone are used.

The mortgage on the present house at 120 South Sixth Street was burned at the Homecoming celebration of 1951. Since then the house has been painted and re-decorated, and plans are being made to build a new house on the Hill. Construction of the red brick fraternity house is scheduled to begin during the summer on a plot next to the Lambda Chi Alpha house. A principal feature of the design is to be a large open veranda overlooking the Susquehanna River.

Kappa Delta Rho traditionally co-operates with a sorority group to sponsor a Christmas party for children. In the fall the KDR's worked with the Alpha Phi's to develop a funeral theme for the Homecoming Parade. In addition to the pledge dance, Houseparty, and other social events throughout the year, the KDR "Shanty Town Shuffle" has become a yearly highlight presented through the efforts of pledges and active brothers.

At the election held at the beginning of second semester, the following officers were chosen: Robert Bauman, president; Morris Pickell, vice president; Herman Wilde, secretary; George Hipp, treasurer.

Alpha Phi Chapter of Kappa Sigma was established on Bucknell campus in 1896. The national organization dates back to 1869 at the University of Virginia, and now is composed of 127 chapters. The hilly-of-the-valley is the Chapter flower, and scarlet, green and white are the colors of the fraternity.

One of the first built on University Avenue, the house is remarkable for its English-style architecture, featuring the exposed-beam ceilings and balcony overlooking the living room. The house provides living quarters for 55 and has facilities for feeding 80. The basement recreation rooms have been recently redecorated in knotty pine with indirect lighting.

Each year the brothers of Kappa Sigma sponsor a tea in honor of the freshman women. At this time the freshmen are given an opportunity to tour the entire Fraternity house, and are entertained by members of the house.

The traditional Christmas formal is highlighted by the release of large balloons filled with confetti. The Kappa Sigs annually hold a costume party, bearing such themes as the Roaring Twenties, Arabian Nights, and a pajama party.

In conjunction with a campus sorority, Kappa Sigs provide a Christmas party for needy children of the area. Several of the members have formed a band which entertains at football rallies.

Chosen for second semester officers were: Homer Wieder, president; Oliver Maypole, vice president; David Nodine, secretary; and Robert Gibbs, treasurer.

The installation date for Delta Zeta chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha at Bucknell was 1913. This chapter is now one of 150 representatives of the largest national fraternity in the country, founded at Boston University in 1909. The white rose is the symbol of the fraternity, and purple, green, and gold are the colors. Fraternity headquarters are located at Indianapolis.

Lambda Chi Alpha first occupied its new house on the Hill in 1951. The house has living accommodations for 31 and eating facilities for nearly 100. It has been chosen by the national fraternity as the model house for the publication of a rushing brochure. Mrs. Edith Bickhart, the only fraternity housemother on campus, occupies a large suite on the first floor and serves as chaperone for the house social functions.

Annually Delta Zeta chapter holds a party for children of the near-by orphanage. Masquerade parties have become traditional: this year a pajama party was held. Pledge dance, Christmas formal, and Houseparty are annual social events. Lambda Chi worked in co-operation with Pi Beta Phi sorority in building a float for the Homecoming Parade. "The Little Engine That Could—And Did" placed third in the judging.

Lambda Chi Alpha captured the intramural handball trophy and placed second in the crosscountry competition.

Officers for second semester included: Clifford Smith, president; Ronald Cipolla, vice president; Richard Locke, secretary; William Wooster, treasurer.

Delta Chapter of Phi Gamma Delta was installed on the Bucknell campus in 1882, thirty-four years after the first of the fraternity's 32 chapters was founded. Purple and white were chosen as the fraternity colors and purple clematis is the fraternity flower.

The ivy-colored stone house was built on University Avenue in 1915 and has sleeping accommodations for 32. Renovations have been made from time to time, the most recent being the pine-paneling of the basement recreation rooms. Construction of a new $75,000 wing was begun in the spring.

At Christmas time the Phi Gams held a party at which they played Santa for the underprivileged children of the Lewisburg area. Fiji Island has become the highlight of the Phi Gam social season, supplemented by the Christmas formal and pledge dance. This year the Fijis worked with Kappa Delta sorority on the Elvis Presley theme for Homecoming with the slogan, "You May Think You're a Cat—But You Ain't Nothin' But a Hound Dog."

Delta's scholarship achievement has been cited by the national headquarters of the fraternity as the chapter which showed the greatest scholastic improvement.

Phi Gamma Delta gained points early in the intramural race by winning the soccer cup in the fall.

Officers elected for the second semester included: Stanley Clow, president; Wallace Hunter, recording secretary; Robert Stumpf, corresponding secretary; William Day, treasurer.

Phi Kappa Psi has the distinction of being the first fraternity established on the Bucknell campus and the first fraternity house situated on the Hill. Pennsylvania Gamma Chapter was founded in 1855, one of the oldest of the 59 chapters comprising the national organization. The colors of the fraternity are cardinal red and hunter's green; its flower is the jacqueminot rose.

The Phi Psi house was built in 1932, and accommodates 39 members. Unique to Phi Psis is their custom of pinning with a jeweled sweetheart pin, rather than with the badge of Phi Kappa Psi.

Phi Kappa Psi was founded in 1853 at Jefferson College, the same institution which marks the founding of Phi Gamma Delta. Thus, these two fraternities have become known as the "Jeff Duo," and celebrate their common birthplace each year with the "Jeff Duo" party.

Among the recent additions to the Phi Psi social calendar is the Shipwreck Dance, an annual costume party planned as a part of the Senior Prom Weekend festivities. The members also work with a sorority in decorating a float for the Homecoming Parade.

Each year local orphans receive gifts and food from Santa at a Christmas party planned by members of Phi Psi and Pi Beta Phi sorority.

The second semester president was Bruce Nealey, and the vice president was George Meyers. The rest of the officers were elected later in the spring.

The only local fraternal group at Bucknell is Phi Lambda Theta, established in 1921. Alpha Chapter of Phi Lambda Theta chose purple, green, and gold as its fraternity colors, and the chrysanthemum as its flower.

The Phi Lams expect to build a new house on the Hill in the near future. Their plot, which is to the right of the Lambda Chi Alpha house, has already been purchased.

Their present home was built in 1786, and is one of the oldest buildings in Lewisburg. It houses sixteen members. The Phi Lams formerly resided on the corner of Seventh and Market Streets, now the home of the Community Civic Center.

The annual Phi Lam Pow Wow, an Indian costume party, is a well-known campus function. The members also include in their social activities a Christmas formal, and a formal dance on the Friday night of Houseparty Weekend. At Christmas time the Phi Lams join with a sorority in giving a party for the Sunbury orphans. Many of their Homecoming floats and house decorations have taken first prize.

Phi Lams achieved the highest grade-point average among fraternities for the first semester this year. They were the defending champions of intramural basketball.

The Phi Lambda Theta Foundation, a charitable organization, annually presents the University with $100 to be used as a scholarship for a needy student.

Second semester officers included: Robert Ackerman, president; Carl Wightman, vice president; Gordon Huff, secretary; James Fox, treasurer.

In 1893 Pennsylvania Zeta of Sigma Alpha Epsilon was installed at Bucknell. There are 139 chapters of the fraternity. The violet is the fraternity flower and purple and gold were chosen as the colors.

The red brick house on St. George Street was built in 1923 and since then has been flooded three times by the waters of the near-by creek—in 1936, 1946, and 1956. In 1936 the brothers entered the house through the windows via rowboat. Present house capacity is 23 with hopes for expanding to include twelve more. The most recent of the renovations took place in the game room and the decoration of the new "Pogo Room."

This year the chapter was awarded a certificate of merit by the Boy Scouts of America for services rendered in the construction of a new scout camp for Susquehanna Valley. In the fall the SAE's won first prize in the Homecoming Float competition with the co-operation of the freshman women of Carey House. The Hobo Dance has become an annual custom for the house.

Two persons have become living traditions for SAE—Clark Hinkle, '32, Bucknell's only All-American and All-Professional football player, and Carl Riehl, the custodian who has been with the chapter for twenty-two years.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon was active this year in intramural sports and placed first in tennis and wrestling.

Officers elected for second semester were: Samuel Adams, president; Forrest Long, vice president; Philip Nerhood, secretary; James Shafer, treasurer.

The founding year for Sigma Alpha Mu on the Bucknell campus was 1932, when Sigma Phi became one of the 41 chapters in existence. Purple and silver are the fraternity colors.

In the fall of 1955 the Sammies moved into their newly renovated house on University Avenue. The house has a room capacity for 40 men. This is the twenty-fifth anniversary year for the Bucknell chapter of Sigma Alpha Mu, and a three-day observation of the event took place in April. Alumni from the past quarter century and actives from other chapters of the fraternity spent the week-end celebrating the Silver Anniversary, for which the Sammies imported four bands.

At Christmas time Sigma Alpha Mu co-operated with Kappa Delta sorority to sponsor a party for the children from the Sunbury Orphanage and the Lewisburg area. In the fall the fraternity collaborated with the girls of Third Larison to construct a Homecoming Float on the theme of "The Man with the Golden Arm." The annual Bermuda Party has become a standing social tradition at the Sammy house, together with frequent Saturday afternoon jam sessions.

Sigma Alpha Mu participated in intramural sports again this year, placing second in both wrestling and bowling and runner-up in tennis and handball. Sammy took second place in scholarship last year.

Officers elected for the second semester were: Jay Citron, president; Harold Richman, vice president; William Cahn, secretary; Victor Parker, treasurer.

Sigma Chi was chartered at Bucknell in 1861, and Kappa chapter is now one of 127 active chapters. The white cross, the blue and gold shield, and the white rose are the fraternity symbol, colors, and flower.

In 1943 the Sigs moved into a newly-built house of red brick colonial architecture on the Hill. It houses 34 members. Unique features of the interior include a chapter room in memory of William Haines, member of the Class of 1956, and a combined library and trophy room. Their former residence is now Seventh Street House, a women's dormitory.

During the spring Sigma Chi sponsors a car wash as a money-raising project for the benefit of a local charity.

Also in the spring the Sig Derby is given for the sorority pledges at which a pledge queen is elected, and she and her court are entertained at a special party.

Once a year the head residents of the woman's dormitories are invited to a dinner given in their honor by the Sigs. At the Christmas formal the Sigma Chi Sweetheart is chosen for the year and presented. The Bowery Brawl has become the chief social event of the spring season.

Sigma Chi tied for second place in the Interfraternity Sing which was held during Homecoming Weekend.

Pennsylvania Kappa chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon was installed at Bucknell in 1938. There are 112 chapters of the fraternity, which dates back to its original founding in 1901 at Richmond College, Virginia. It has as its colors the purple and red of the violet and the American Beauty rose.

The fraternity badge of Sigma Phi Epsilon is in the shape of a heart, with a black center bearing the Greek letters surrounded by seed pearls. A monthly newspaper is published by the chapter.

This year the Sig Eps brought about a great change by moving from their former house on Brown Street to a newer and larger house on University Avenue, which accommodates 28 members of the fraternity. The red brick house was formerly a part of the Judge Johnson estate.

The move was celebrated by a Housewarming Party, and a Housewarming Queen was chosen to reign at the festivities.

The end of final examinations and the beginning of a new semester are heralded annually with a Post-Exam Jubilee. Sig Eps hold an unusual costume party known as "Skid Row" in the middle of January. For the Homecoming Parade in the fall, Sigma Phi Epsilon worked with Phi Mu sorority to construct a Viking ship illustrating the theme, "Keel Lafayette."

The Sig Eps are also active in intramural sporting events. Each year they entertain underprivileged children at a Christmas party.

Chapter officers for second semester were: Jack Moyer, president; Lawrence Sheehan, vice president; Robert Ruger, secretary; William Hollenbach, treasurer; and George Brown, historian.

Beta Mu Chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon has been established on Bucknell's campus for ten years. When the local group joined TKE in 1917, it became a member of a national organization which now includes 133 chapters. Cherry and grey are the colors of the Chapter, and the red carnation is its flower.

The annual costume party of the Tekes has as its theme "The Sewers of Paris." In cooperation with a sorority group, members work on a float for the Homecoming Parade. This year their theme was "Dial B for Victory." Also in connection with the Homecoming festivities of this year, Tau Kappa Epsilon's singing group tied for third in the interfraternity song-fest competition.

Tekes traditionally celebrate their own holiday, "Teke Night Around the World," on January 10. The brothers take part in all intramural sports, with bowling a favorite, and are active participants in many other campus activities.

While still a local fraternity, the members kept the scholarship cup for eighteen out of 21 consecutive semesters.

Tau Kappa Epsilon is another fraternity contemplating the building of a new house. At this time they have no definite plans. Their present house accommodates seventeen members.

The second semester officers of TKE were: Donald Beistel, president; James Davis, vice president; John Miller, secretary; Richard Benton, treasurer; Robert Cohen, historian.

Theta Chi fraternity was locally founded in 1921, and is known as Gamma Eta Chapter. Its national membership includes 118 chapters. Theta Chi colors are military red and white, and its flower is the red carnation.

This year the Theta Chi's have taken temporary residence in the men's dormitories until plans and construction for their new house are completed. The University Cafeteria has provided eating quarters for the fraternity this year.

Formerly located on the corner of South Third and St. Louis Streets, the Theta Chi house of the future will be situated on two acres of land adjacent to the Lambda Chi Alpha house. The modern architecture of this ranch-type dwelling of California redwood will be an innovation on the Bucknell campus.

An outstanding social event on the Theta Chi calendar is their annual Beaux Arts Ball. The chapter celebrated its Centennial last year with a formal dance and a jazz session.

Theta Chi took second place in the annual Homecoming Parade with the theme "There'll Be a Hot Cat in the Old Pot Tonight." They annually join with a sorority to give a Christmas party for the orphans. Although the plans for the new house have been the main project of Theta Chi this year, the members have participated in intramural sports.

The officers for second semester include: Donald King, president; Fred Kemery, vice president; Nelson Smith, secretary; and Marvin Fisher, treasurer.

athletics

The 1956 Bisons fielded a stronger team than its 1955 predecessor and promises further improvement for 1957. The overall record of three wins and five losses belies the strong battle waged against almost all opponents.

The outstanding seniors for the Herd were co-captains Ralph Riker and Don Koppes. Paul Manning, and Jim Stewart. Koppes played consistent hard ball and won general acclaim as a fullback. Trouble shooter Riker played wherever needed and always performed well. Jim Stewart got off his usual good punts and did some fine running of his own.

Opening the season with a win over Albright in the Lions' den the Bison showed a strong ground game to win 13-0. In the Rotary Bowl contests at Hershey Bucknell brought its overall record to a respectable four wins against one defeat as the Gettysburg Bullets were defeated by a score of 17-7.

Two defeats in a row to Lehigh, 25-6, and to Delaware, 26-7, evened the season at two wins and two losses. The outstanding contribution of Bucknell in these games was the strong running of Don Koppes and a fine second half performance against Delaware.

The Old Shoe remained at Bucknell for another year when the Herd won a hard fought contest at Temple Stadium by the score of 12-6. Homecoming found the Bisons facing an undefeated Lafayette team. Though prohibitive underdogs, the Bisons took the fight to the Leopards for the whole game. Lafayette was very happy for the final whistle and a very inconclusive 13-7 victory.

Bucknell played its poorest game of the year in the home stadium against Buffalo. The Bulls won 31-13 as the Bisons looked rather inept.

The Bisons looked forward to their last game against powerful Colgate, conqueror of Yale, with little hope. But the Bisons playing their best game of the year, outplayed their formidable opponents for three quarters, finally succumbing to superior numbers by the score of 26-12.

In retrospect, the team played a hard spirited game most of the year. The performances against Gettysburg, Lafayette, and Colgate were particularly noteworthy.

As the season progressed and injuries took their toll, the original thirty-three man squad was cut to below thirty. Prospects for a more numerous squad in 1957, along with the return of most of the 1956 team, auger for solid improvement. The 1957 team will be built around a solid nucleus of lettermen Rogers Frassenei, Bruce Nealy, Bob Holmes, Bill Walasek, Lew Hart, Gene Meehan, Terry Fetterman, Bill Ross, Bob Fitzsimmons, Jack Brothers, and others.

If the future of the varsity squad is at all dependent upon the success of the freshman team, then that future should be a bright one. The Baby Bisons of Bob Latour had a .500 season, winning two, losing two, and tying one. The season started with a bang as the Herd rolled to a 37-11 trouncing for the Franklin and Marshall frosh.

In the second game the Baby Bisons succumbed to a hard-fighting Gettysburg team by a score of 21-11. Behind, 12-0 at halftime, the Frosh scored twice in the second half.

Bucknell's second win was a 20-0 pasting of Lock Haven State Teachers' College, as the Herd completely outplayed the Bald Eagles.

On a dismal Saturday afternoon at Newark, Delaware, the Herd was snowed under by four touchdown passes and lost to the Blue Hens by 34-13. One week later Lehigh was battled to a 6-6 tie.

The Bison line gives much promise for the future. Such stalwarts as Ken Russo, Jack Eachus, and Doug Forsyth, ends; Neal Murphy, Bob Patzwell, and Vince Burleson, tackles; Charlie Negron, Jim Brady, and Larry Claycomb, guards; and John Bergfeld, Larry Mathias, and Roger Mutzel, centers, show promise as excellent varsity material. The backfield, led by Denny Cox, Bud Weisbeck, Ray Hettche, Clint Gilkey, George Salinger, Jack Lebengood, Don Hayes, Bob Erdahl, and Don McCormack, should be more than adequate for future varsity service.

The 1956 soccer season was an odd one, featuring a great upset win over Temple, frequent juggling of the line-up, and an unusual final tally of three wins, three losses, and three ties.

After dropping the opener to the national champion Penn State team, the Petersmen came back with an upset victory over highly-regarded Temple, the first Bucknell win over them in nineteen years, 2-1, with 1955 League all-star selection George Dowden booting home both of the goals.

Because of a weak offensive, there were tried many different line-up combinations, which gave rise to such sights as co-captains Sam Wood (a full-back) and Lee Hamilton (regular goaltender) playing on the line.

The Bison booters, who definitely play best under adverse weather conditions, collected wins over Delaware and Gettysburg in the mud.

Playing outstanding defensive games all season were Chuck Deardorff and Dave Rickard at fullback, Ozzie Dull at halfback, and sophomore Bill Sharp, relieving Hamilton in the goal.

For the first time in its history, Bucknell University has a varsity swimming team. Sixty candidates answered Coach Bob Latour's call for freshman and varsity swimmers. Working hard from early November the team won its first practice meet with Lock Haven S. T. C. 55-33. On January 15, the team lost its first inter-collegiate meet to an experienced Franklin and Marshall aggregation, 57-29. With ten sophomores, only one senior, and many promising freshman prospects, next year's nine-meet schedule is eagerly anticipated by the Bison aquamen.

The fifth major project in Bucknell University's Second Century Development Program, the Freas-Rooke Swimming Pool, was completed in the fall and was dedicated on October 19. Named for its donors, A. Guy Freas and Robert L. Rooke, the tile pool was built at a cost of $300,000.

The pool and its facilities incorporate the most modern in aquatic construction. The pool itself holds 210,000 gallons of water, chemically treated and run through sand filters. It measures 75 feet by 42 feet and depth ranges from three feet to 13 feet. A wide deck area provides ample space for class instruction. There are two standard diving apparatuses—a one-meter and a three-meter board. Opposite the diving equipment is a glass-enclosed booth for officials and observers. The walls around the deck area are acoustically treated, and the specially high ceiling insures safe conditions for diving.

The addition of the swimming pool was accompanied by other changes in Davis Gymnasium. Behind the new facade is a spacious lobby with a booth from which tickets for all athletic events are sold. Eight offices have been provided on the two floors for the athletic director, coaches, and physical education staffs. Other additions include a lounge on the second floor, a classroom with seating capacity for fifty, and locker rooms for visiting teams and coaches.

The Annex to Davis Gymnasium serves the University as an auditorium for chapel services and mass meetings.

basketball

The most successful basketball campaign in Bucknell history was achieved by Coach Ben Kribbs' cagers during the 1956-57 season. In the beginning the Herd chalked up a string of seven victories before succumbing to West Virginia Tech in the final game of the Hofstra Tournament. Paced by the scoring of co-captains Marty Tannenbaum and Skip Wieder, the Bisons got off to an excellent start, with the courtmen scoring triumphs over top-rated teams in the East. There was no problem of height-advantage this year, for the victories were accomplished through the rebounding efforts of two 6' 6" sophomores, Hal Danzig and Bob Ericsson.

Seniors who performed ably during the season included Marty Tannenbaum, John Beatty, and Joe Baccelli. The Herd quintet suffered a blow in mid-season when Mike Corrigan injured his knee and was sidelined for the remaining games. An accurate marksman, he contributed to the opening winning surge. Norm Voorhees, the fifth senior member, played a steady brand of ball throughout the season.

Leading point-getters for the Bison squad were: Hal Danzig, 343; Joe Baccelli, 297; Jack Flanagan, 147; Marty Tannenbaum, 144; John Beatty, 127; and Dick Kniffin, 127.

During the season Coach Kribbs, while counting on Joe Baccelli and center Hal Danzig, varied the starting line-up among leading contenders: Bob Ericsson, John Beatty, Skip Wieder, Ellis Harley, John Strizzi, Dick Kniffin, and Marty Tannenbaum.

Ten experienced veterans—six sophomores and four juniors—will return next year to spark the 1957-58 season.

Coach Bill Lane's Frosh Five performed creditably during the past season, winning eleven of the eighteen games. In the early stages of the season the Baby Bisons encountered stiff opposition in the form of Cornell, Lehigh, and Juniata. However, besides these losses, the freshmen played ball worthy of the Bucknell tradition by conquering Gettysburg, Hofstra, Bloomsburg, and double victories over Albright and Wyoming Seminary.

Responsible for the team's success were leading scorers Pete Matz, with 314 points to his credit, and Pete Sylvester, who accumulated 277 points. At the outset of the second semester, the Lane quintet dropped two contests to Penn State and were later defeated by Gettysburg. Following these failures, the squad bounced back to score wins over Bloomsburg, F. and M. and Lehigh. The relentless rebounding efforts of Bob Horn and Bob Johns were a contributing factor in these triumphs. Reserve players who saw much action and aided the team considerably were Jack Woerner, Tony Constantine, and Bill Aungst.

The 1957 wrestling season ended with a record of 3-1, a decided improvement over the 1956 ledger of 2-5. Point-getters for the Bison squad included heavyweight Bill Benton, who posted the best individual record of 7-0, pinning six men and outscoring another. Next in line for honors is Larry Dempster, 157-pound junior with a 3-1 slate. Sophomore Dick Reed, 137-pound contestant won three and dropped two. Roland Bell, 117-pounder, had a 1-2 record. Bob Glickman of the 130-pound division, finished with an average 3-3-1 performance.

Last year Bucknell placed fifth in the Middle Atlantic Championships. This year the Bisons did not perform so well in the highly competitive conference held at Gettysburg. Undefeated during the regular season, Bill Benton lost a decision to John Keehn of Muhlenberg, and Larry Dempster was felled 5-0 by Steve Prutzman of Ursinus.

This year saw seniors Ken Johnson and Bob German complete their three-year stints with the Bucknell team, and their places will be taken next season by this year's freshman wrestlers, who were undefeated in five matches.

Coming very close to their undefeated record of the previous season, the 1956 track team chalked up three victories against one defeat last spring. Captain Ed Burg ended his outstanding track career at Bucknell without a defeat in his specialties—the 100 and 220-yard sprint events. Al Larrabee garnered three firsts in his event. Seniors Bill Campbell, Bill Lenker, and Jim Riker and sophomores Bob Ackerman and John Mueller provided a strong nucleus for the winning team. Distance runner Art Saunders was plagued with injuries and was absent from much of the competition.

The 1957 squad will be led by Co-captains Art Saunders and Al Larrabee.

baseball

During his eleventh season at Bucknell, Bill Lane coached the baseball team to a satisfactory record of eight wins and eleven defeats. The 1956 slate did not quite match 1955's balanced record of ten victories and as many set-backs.

Largely responsible for the season's success were pitcher Don Richards, outfielder Chuck Sneath, and play-er-of-many-positions Bob Whitehead. A third year veteran, Richards posted a creditable 5-5 pitching score, defeating Temple in the outstanding encounter of the season. Besides achieving nineteen strikeouts in that game, Richards later in the season set two records; the first no-hit game and the most strikeouts for a three-year span. Sneath, hitting at .360, performed well in his center field position. Whitehead, batting .291, played first base, second base, and outfield position.

Indispensable elements of Bucknell athletic life are the "B" Club and the Cheerleaders. The former is a concentration of athletes who have earned their letters on the field, the court, or the mat, the latter a concentration of traditional college spirit in a few individuals.

The "B" Club, headed by Don Koppes, undertook to sponsor and escort children from the local orphanage to home football games in addition to their regular duties of operating the concessions at home games. This year the club also established a scholarship for a deserving athlete.

The 1956-57 Cheerleaders, captained by Gwen Howell, were frequently dampened by cold rains, but their enthusiasm was unaffected. Providing color and spirit for an easily disheartened crowd, they played a sixty minute game.

Bucknell University, a Fifty Year Judgment

You don't judge the first Christian College of twelve commonplace students by its one failure, Judas Iscariot, neither do you condemn the Christian Church by a few religious racketeers. Certainly the other original eleven members were of tremendous significance through all subsequent history. Their first medical mission to heal all manner of diseases and sickness, had all the power of the great Physician Himself. Living testimony today to this first Health Commission is seen in multitudes of hospitals throughout the world. The plain pulpit of the Galilean Sea and the rocky pulpit on the mountain top, is housed today in multitudes of Churches. Churches exceptionally large and ornate and Churches of plain and meager proportions. This first Century Christian College, always on the move, with no place to lay its pedagogical head has grown until today, education is for the masses, wherever real Christianity predominates.

Who has despised the day of small beginnings? Bucknell itself, born in very humble circumstances, has picked up this Christian Torch and is carrying forward its Christian Philosophy throughout the world. Its graduates have occupied many outstanding places of leadership in Astronomy, Statesmanship, Diplomacy, patriotic and sacrificial accomplishment in defense of our democratic institutions, in Medicine and Law, in the social sciences and the humanities, in Chemistry and all kinds of Engineering, and above all, in Educators, Ministers, and Missionaries. For many years with inadequate equipment and finances at a low ebb, our faculties carried on in sacrificial fashion and achieved remarkable success, with its graduate students.

We have witnessed Bucknell's growth until in every way it is at least three times the original size as we first knew it. Bucknell, like the first Christian College, is always on the move, better buildings, multiplied courses of study, bigger student body and more professors with higher degrees—altogether a situation that we can well be proud.

The privilege and honor of a front seat in fifty years of Bucknell history, the pleasant relations with Bucknell personnel of high and low estate all out-weigh any unpleasant episodes in that period. As we have frequently told our good wife, her good fellowship, her good sportsmanship, her cooperation in business, her neatness and charm, her ability as a home maker, all these and many more virtues so far out distance any lack of perfection, that we gladly forget there is such a thing. And so we judge Bucknell.

We are only scratching the surface when we mention just a few names that have made Bucknell renowned. We will forget all about any relatives of Judas Iscariot in Bucknell history. Only those who have crossed our path are named in this list who have honored Bucknell. Presidents Hill, Groff, Harris, Hunt, Marts, and Spencer; Professors Hamblin, Phillips, Rockwood, Theiss, Stewart, Groner, Burpee, Simpson, Heim, Sutherland, Rickards; Deans Rivenburg, Coleman; Treasurers Dr. Judd, Ranck; Registrars Billy Gretzinger, Dr. Evans; Trustees Dr. Mary Harris, Dr. Mary Wolfe. And a few names that come to our mind at random—Dr. Hulley, Dr. Bolton, Dr. Humm, Dr. C. F. Potter, Si Morgan, Ken Slifer, Dr. Nicodemus, Dr. Harriman, Dr. Wyant, Dr. Mabel Leslie, Dr. Emma Dillon, Dr. Robey. Thus Bucknell is assured of a distinguished place in the Educational Sun. Indeed she has achieved in full measure all the great hopes of her founders.

Alma Mater

Dear Bucknell, oft of thee we're thinking,
And Mem'ries fond come trooping by;
The tireless stars may cease their blinking,
But thoughts of thee shall never die;
And though the years steal swiftly o'er us
And winter comes with biting sting,
Our hearts with youth's undaunted chorus,
Shall e'er with praise of Bucknell ring.

We burn the incense of affection,
As in thy sacred fanes we meet,
While down the aisles of recollection
Come thronging forms we love to greet;
And though life's bitter storms sweep o'er us
And pleasures bide on fleeting wing,
Our hearts shall blend in loving chorus,
While Alma Mater's praise we sing.

To thee we swear our proud allegiance,
Thy loyal sons are we, and true;
Nor time, nor tide, nor fortune's pageants
Shall daunt the Orange and the Blue;
Then with thy glory e'er before us,
Our loving tribute we will bring,
And once again in hearty chorus,
Thy praise, dear Bucknell, we will sing.
